“ Even when we were strangers, barely meeting for the first time, Calvin was one of the kindest and most generous people I've ever known. There was always a feeling of warmth and welcome whenever you were around him. As I grew to call him friend over the ensuing sixteen years, even having him accept the honor as serving as a groomsman for my wedding, there were few men who were as special as Calvin.

There will always be a hole in my heart where Calvin resides, one that can never be filled. He was one of those rare friends that no matter how much time or distance was between you, every time you did see each other, it was like picking things back up from the last time you met.

The world will always be a bit diminished without Calvin. My heartfelt condolences and deepest sympathies for his family, his friends, and everyone who knew him. A great and warm light has been taken from us all.

“ I met Calvin from attending Project A-Kon. Hijinx and comedy would ensure whenever he was with our group of friends. He'd always light up a room with his laugh. He'll be sorely missed. :(

“ Ok, guess I will start this off... I knew him 1st by his online name, Logera. He was the admin for an online board many of us frequented & what started as just online communication became a 16 year friendship.... With many get togethers & road trips & lots of laughter! Oh his laughter...he had such a deep laugh...we called it his evil laugh... ^_^ For it usually followed some type of hilarity or his own personal thought.... Super smart, helpful, loved to pick at us & we back at him.... Miss him a bunch already
