Visitation: 6-8 p.m. Friday and services at 2:00 p.m. Saturday at Guerrero-Dean Funeral Home, Burial; Parkdale Cemetery in Arlington."Father, we are caught by surprise, but You are not. You know Carol. You know her body, soul and spirit. You know her heart. All her days were written in Your book before one of them came to be. She is Yours for You made her and You have loved her with an everlasting love. May Your perfect love cast out all fear. May Your touch bring healing in spite of the "sentence of death". May she learn more of You as she walks through this valley. Make her aware of Your presence and give her grace according to the need of the moment. May Your will and purposes for Carol be accomplished. And may glory, praise and thanksgiving abound to You, O Lord. May this sickness not be to death, but to Your glory! Thank You!

“ Carol Ann Swadley , she was my wonderful grandmother . I remember growing up as a little boy going to see her every weekend and look at all the different breeds of dogs and cats she always knew everything there was about dogs and cats. I remember staying there as a little boy during the summer and every morning my grandpa and grandma and I would go walk the malls at the crack of dawn for exercise. Atleast once a week we would always eat at catfish & company with my mom dad and grandma and grandpa , she was a very smart, strong , loving woman and she meant the world to me . Every Christmas Eve the whole family would get together at there house and it was so grand to have all the family together , she always made sure everyone was included and showed up with no excuses .When I lost her it really hurt bc she was my only grandmother I had left. I will always love her and forever in my heart your grandson Alexander Michael Swadley Cooper .
