

Clarence Herman Pinkus

November 22, 1920 - October 18, 2012

Clarence Herman Pinkus, 91, a native of Norwich, CT., and resident of Irving, died on Wednesday, Oct. 18, 2012. Clarence was the son of the late Francisco Pie' and the late Paulene Banke Pie'. After graduation from high school from Westfield High School in New York, he joined the US Air Corps, serving in World War II aboard bombers. After his discharge from the military, he would become an employee of Stain Home Products, living in New York, Oklahoma and Dallas. He would spend his entire career with them, traveling all over the nation and even internationally, trouble-shooting and solving pressing issues. He would finally retire in 1986 after more than 40 years of service. Known to those closest to him as Grand PaPa, he loved watching sports and Judge Judy. He was an outdoors person, happiest when he could spend a little time at the beach. He was the last living member of his family, but he leaves friends that will miss him, including: care-giver and friend, Esther Taylor and her son, Daniel. Inurnment will occur at DFW National Cemetery, Dallas, Texas where he will rest beside his brother, the late Dr. Albin Pinkus. Graveside services are scheduled for 11 a.m. Monday, Oct. 29, 2012.
