“ My mom was coming out of the bathroom in my house headed back to her room to lie down and watch syfy as she always did. And my daughter Giselle hid behind her bed while recording her on her phone and as soon as my mom sat down, Giselle jumped up and scared the "piss" out of her as mom put it. We were cracking up and she was going to town on us. We watched that video a thousand times.

My Mom was warm, nurturing and carrying in the most Godly way. Her selfless sacrifice for her family was the most important legacy she left for me/mine/our family. I never forget the comfort she left with me letting me know everything will always be okay! She was strong spiritually with the attitude of never giving up, and loving the next troubled soul in her wake. My Mom was the definition of compassion. Her fun nature, joking and laughter lit up family and friends souls. Especially mine in my darkest storms. I love you mom and will forever be grateful for the woman you were and still are too/for me and my family. Love always and forever!

There are many things that can be said of the ups and downs, good times and bad, and all the other events that happened, while you were here with us. Nevertheless, at the end of the night, love was the victor and for that I am grateful. I want to say thank you for everything you did and tried to do for us. I would have it no other way in terms of you being my Momma. I hope you, Grandma, and your sister are at peace wherever your spirits may be.

I know you know that there are no real words to use to describe a son's love for his Momma and moreso a mother's love for her son. All in all, the only words I really feel that are worth saying to you, Momma are:

I love you from the depths of my heart...
