“ So happy that I was able to meet Fred. He always showed kindness to my family and me. The first time he met my daughter, she was about a month old. He was so happy to finally meet her he started singing, “ya llego, ya llego, si, si, si,” and said he wanted to make sure she recognized his voice.

As time went by, every time he saw her, he would sing that same little tune. Eventually, my daughter learned how to talk and would sing it as soon as she saw him. He was so happy when she finally learned how to say his name.

We recently passed by his house, and she started singing and asking for him. Although they may not have the chance to sing together again, I’m so grateful for the memories he created for my daughter.

We love you, Fred.
