“ He lives through each and everyone of us. We've learned that every minute of everyday counts. To cherish moments we spend with one another, because with a blink of an eye they're gone. God grants us the gift of love. Love is powerful, love kept us going. As a family we grew closer, for a moment. All my uncle wanted was for our family to be as one, it took losing him to realize that. We lost a son, brother, uncle and friend, but we gained a beautiful angel. After years I've accepted that nothing in this world can bring him back. However knowing that he is in heaven gives me all the hope and encouragement to do right, so that one day I will see my uncle again. Remember him as the loving, caring and hilarious spirit he was. Rest in peace and know that you're never forgotten and always loved.

Love bobo

P.s. I hope you have your purple button shirt in heaven, and also thank you for giving me my name.
