

Marjorie Cain

August 3, 1925 - May 15, 2011

Marjorie Gentry Cain, 85, a resident of Grand Prairie, died on Sunday, May 15, 2011 in Arlington, Texas after a lengthy illness. Marjorie was born on August 3, 1925 in Harmon, Louisiana, to the late Henry Wilkins Gentry and the late Easter Broomfield Gentry. The Gentry family had moved from Arkansas to Louisiana, following jobs in the oilfields. While there, she would meet her husband, the late Loyd Dewitt Cain of New Orleans. They would marry and move to the Grand Prairie area, where they would live for the rest of their lives. She would work for various employers, including Millar Drug where she worked as a soda jerk, Safeway and Kroger Food Stores where she worked in the Deli. She retired in 1989 following the death of her husband. She was a faithful member of First Assembly of God of Grand Prairie until the decline of her health. Survivors include her children, Donald Cain, David Cain and his wife Kathy, Peggy Young and her husband John; 8 grandchildren; 11 great-grandchildren; siblings, Otha Lee Gentry, Louis Gentry, Eloise Hughes and Maxine Malone. She was preceded in death by her parents, husband, and sons, Samuel, Ronald and Richard. Visitation: 6 to 8 p.m. Tuesday. Funeral: 2 p.m. Wednesday at Guerrero-Dean Funeral Home. Burial: Southland Memorial Park.
